

Kyaiktiyo Pagoda

Description

Situated in the Mon State, Myanmar, Kyaiktiyo Pagoda is a well-known holy place amongst Buddhists. The pagoda, integrating a giant golden stone as its base, is standing on the edge of a hill. According to the legend, the rock is balanced by a single hair of Buddha. Its unique location offers unique and broad views across the surrounding landscape. It is also the third most popular religious place in Myanmar, attracting thousands of visitors every year.
